

Salvation Songs.

HOLINESS.
Tune—"Take Salvation."
O Thou God of every nation,
We now for Thy blessing call,
Fit us for full consecration,
Let the fire from Heaven fall.
Bless our Army,
With Thy power baptize us all.
Fill us with Thy Holy Spirit,
Make our Soldiers white as snow,
Save the world through Jesus' merit,
Baptize our Kingdom overthrow.
Bless our Army,
Send us where we ought to go.
Bless our General, bless our leaders,
Bless our Officers as well;
Bless our Headquarters, bless our Soldiers,
Bless the foes of sin and Hell.
Bless our Army,
We will all Thy goodness tell.

Tune—Ella Combs, 30; Song-Book, 340.
Come, with me visit Calvary,
Where our Redeemer died;
His blood now fills the fountain,
His deep, His full, His wide,
No drop from sin to sever our hearts and lives complete;
No saves and keeps for ever those living at His feet.

To the uttermost He saves.
God's great, free, full Salvation is offered here and now;
Complete blood-bought redemption
can be obtained by you,
Wash out faith's hand, now claiming, the cleansing flood will flow;
Look out just now, believing, His fullness you shall know.

Tune—"Oh, for a Thousand
Tongues; B. J. 107; S. M., 1, 230.
Oh, for a thousand tongues to sing,
My great Redeemer's praise;
The glories of my God and King,
The triumphs of His grace.

My gracious Master and my God,
Assist me to proclaim,
To spread through all the earth abroad
The honors of Thy name.
He breaks the power of concen-
ed sin,
He sets the prisoner free;
His blood can make the foulest
clean,
His blood avails for me.

Tune—"Oh, the Crowning Day is Coming," M. S. G. 1, 18; B. J. 21.
There is coming on a great day of rejoicing,
When all the ransomed shall gather their Lord as King to crown;
All earth's sorrow and its sin
Shall disappear,
Every heart will the Saviour
then own.

Chorus:
Oh, the crowning day is coming,
Hallelujah!

From far distant lands battalions
now are marching,
Who will have part in the honors
which Jesus will bestow;
God be praised for all the souls
that now are starting,
Swelling the hosts that to victory go.

For the grand review, my comrades, we shall gather,

SALVATION.
Tune—"For You I Am Praying,"
227; Song-Book, 60.

5 We have a message, a message from Jesus,
And time is now hastening its moments are few;
He's seeking poor sinners; make haste to receive Him,
The Master is come and in calloath for you.

We have a message, a message
from Jesus,
A message of hope to the
weary heart;
The love of my Saviour, there's nothing so precious,
The friendship of Jesus will never depart.

We have a message, a message
from Jesus,
A message of love to the poor
drunkard's soul;
The love of my Jesus will wash
all his fetters,
The Blood of my Saviour
makes perfectly whole.

We Miss You.

THE WAR CRY

GENERAL AND MRS. BOOTH

AMERICA'S ATTITUDE
Standing at attention and awaiting orders!

At a Council of War, under the Presidency of General & Mrs. Booth held Aug. 31st, Miss Eva Booth, Commander of the Army's Forces in America, sent a message to the Council, stating that

IS CANADA'S

"The Army in America felt it had in the New General, the man it wanted." She concluded: "They are now standing at attention, waiting to obey orders."

That is Canada's Attitude: We salute our New General and await orders.

The Army marriage service, remarked with womanly definiteness. "The Chief has said something about his bashfulness on our wedding day, but felt in great trembling and overwhelmed by unnumbered responsibilities. But I passed in the mercy of God, and this with a side look and a smile at Mr. Bramwell Booth." "To His Majesty the King!"

Mr. and Mrs. Bramwell Booth have experienced great blessing and joy, as they themselves declare, and now in the midst of further responsibilities they face the future with the courage and hope derived from their strong faith in the Mercy and Wisdom of God.

Salvationist Kitchener.

Gifted Reformer and Organizer Who Stood in the Dock Beside Mr. W. T. Stead.

(From Lloyds Weekly News.)

From the day Mr. Bramwell Booth went down to Whitechapel he has been in the office he has not been away of it. He has acted as his amanuensis, printer, editor, financial, chief organizer, principal of Salvation theology, and for the last three decades as Chief of the Staff, or second in command.

When the late General went on his world tour he left the whole Army in his son's hands, giving him the necessary power of attorney. Not once did he disappoint the General.

In one sense he inherited the position. He was named by his parent after his patron saint, the Rev. William Bramwell, ministered for nearly among the Wesleyan Methodists of one hundred years ago. His career has been synonymous with the evolution of the Salvation Army. The father was the Bismarck and the son the Von Moltke of the movement. The General of The Salvation Army planned his Utopia for the submerged, but without the organizing genius of his Chief of the Staff that scheme might have proved a dismal failure. His hand has moulded the social scheme of the Army more than his father's.

He has, like an Ezekiel, become an actor, in order to drive home truths through the imagination of the people. He has walked the streets of London more than once dressed in sackcloth as a protest against its apathy toward God and Christ; he has warned sinners to flee from the wrath of God by preaching from a coffin and in a coffin.

When Mr. W. T. Stead set out on his crusade against the traffic in women, and shocked society by publishing the "Maiden Tribute," Mr. Bramwell Booth co-operated with Mr. Stead.

Mr. Bramwell Booth stood with his colleague in the dock at the Old Bailey, though no more guilty of an offence or of breaking the law in the letter or the spirit, than the judge who tried the case. He was, of course, handsomely exonerated of the charge, and informed that he had played the part of a Christian gentleman, and that he had appeared at the trial, but for the neglect of his duty, his staff in holding back a lot of which would have shown that the Army's position on the question of the raising of the age of consent was dictated purely by humanitarian aims.

Chancellor of the Exchequer.

On leaving the dock Mr. Bramwell Booth vowed that he would plant a rescue home in every large town throughout the world, and it looks as if he would have to see that determination made good. Already the Army's Rescue Work is the largest of any in the world.

As a teacher he has done more than any other Officer to educate the Army. He is responsible for most of the books of regulations. He remodelled the Training Home; it is now a college. He instituted an International Staff College, where all the year round promising men and women from different parts of the world spend a few months in London receiving instruction in the principles and practices of salvation and social warfare.

He has entirely reorganized the finances of the Army, is the chairman of the Army's Assurance Society, the Reliance Bank, and other companies that have been floated to conserve and advance the material interests of the society.

"The Pacing of the Heavers."

He has thoroughly altered the young people's departments, and has done more than the General himself did to build the moral stability of the Army. The financial largely the result of his vision, steady, grinding work at the International Headquarters.

As the Army's Chancellor of the Exchequer he often checked schemes that, though brave, worthy and desirable, could not be sustained without seriously taxing the members of the Army.

The new General is fifty-six years old, having been born in 1862 in Ireland. He married in 1882, from the Army ranks, the daughter of the late Dr. Simeon, a layman, who for several years past has superintended the women's department.

THE GENERAL

Replica to Messages of Greeting from Exalted Personages.

The following are the messages sent by the General to the King, the American President, and the Lord Mayor of London, respectively, in reply to their messages of sympathy.

"To His Majesty the King: "Your Majesty's gracious sympathy with us and your generous reference to my dear Father's wonderful life and work strengthen our hearts, and will be a cheer in this hour of trial and loss to all who have loved him."

"He valued very highly the kindness shown to him by your Majesty and the Queen. That kindness is now a treasured memory to us all."

"It will be the highest purpose of our people everywhere to carry on the work he was by God's grace enabled to establish by his memory a monument that will cause his name to be revered for ages throughout the civilized world."

"By a life of unselfish devotion to the interests and welfare of the class seldom reached by other Christian denominations, General William Booth has erected to his memory a monument that will cause his name to be revered for ages throughout the civilized world."

"The death of General Booth is more than a National loss; it is world-wide, for the way in which he spent his noble life for the uplifting of humanity has been an example to all civilized nations."

"While he is gone, the good he did remains, and his name will ever be revered as one of the greatest benefactors of the human race. On behalf of the people of British Columbia, let me express the general sympathy and sorrow felt throughout the Pacific Province at the passing of the venerable founder of the Salvation Army."

"Sir Edward Morris, Prime Minister, Newfoundland: "The people of Newfoundland, many of whom were helped spiritually and materially by the great work of the founder of the Salvation Army, join to-day in the universal sympathy in the great loss which The Salvation Army has met in his death."

"Sir Ralph W. Harris, Governor of Newfoundland: "To deplore the death of one who has done so much to alleviate the lives of the poor and afflicted."

"Premier Giffen of Alberta: "It is not The Salvation Army alone that mourns the death of General Booth, but the whole civilized world. He lifted up the destitute, weak, and hopeless, strengthened the State in upholding the just, and the principles of this great Christian continue to animate the world-wide Army of workers organized by him."

"Premier Giffen of Alberta: "It is not The Salvation Army alone that mourns the death of General Booth, but the whole civilized world. Colonel Mapp read the following messages in connection with the funeral service at the Mount Royal Highness, the Governor of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada:

"I wish to express to you my sincere regret in the loss which the Salvation Army has suffered in the death of their venerable Chief. Not only The Salvation Army, but the world at large is the poorer, and the good that is to suffering and doubting humanity can never be forgotten."

"I pray that the work begun and brought to maturity by General Booth may be carried on with equal success under the leadership of his delegates in command."

THE WORLD and ITS WAYS.

Handicapped—Not Useful.

Helen Keller, the blind, deaf, and dumb woman, whose every day is an education in the face of these handicaps made her fame, is considering the proposition of becoming a city official in Schenectady, N.Y. The place for which Miss Keller has been mentioned is a membership on the Board of Public Welfare.

Mayor Lunn intends that his new board shall have jurisdiction over tenement conditions, children's playgrounds and numerous other matters which do not properly come under any regular department of the Schenectady's city government.

Prevalent Forest Fires.

The annual loss of timber due to forest fires is always a matter of serious concern to Canadians. The Government therefore is making great efforts to prevent these fires from starting by means of its fire ranging service. Since the service had its beginning some twenty-six years ago, the Department of Lands and Forests has worked to train its rangers not only to be fire-fighters—every good bushman knows how to do what to do with a bush fire—but to be fire preventers. There is still a vast amount of work to be done along that line, but the campaign of education, carried on principally through the rangers, is making great strides. The settlers are becoming more careful in "burning off" their land, tourists are learning, slowly, that the best way to dispose of a half-burned match is to throw it into a pile of dry leaves, and that it is not considered a polite action to leave your fire burning for the man who may come along in a day or two and find it covering several acres of bush.

The work of the fire-ranging branch has become an important part of the public service, a part that will require an increasing expenditure from year to year. If the doer is in any uncertainty as to whether that expenditure is justified, all he needs is a call upon any of the lumbermen whose fortunes are bound up in the vast acres of timber land in the north, or a visit to the big forest reserves where not a serious fire has been reported all summer.

New Safety Device for Ships.

A useful invention for the use of ships, particularly in time of fog, to show the direction of the wind, has been demonstrated in England. The apparatus consists of a drum to receive the sound waves and an indicator. The drum is placed aloft and is connected electrically with the indicator.

By means of the electrical device, some wave can be detected in a particular direction across the water. The position of the highest lamp shows the position the ship, whose siren is sounding, occupies with regard to the ship which carries the apparatus. The lamp remains alight until it is seen by the officer on duty, who can then steer it off.

If the other vessel is moving, different lamps are lighted in succession, showing the vessel's course.

With the Army Flying Corps on Salisbury Plain.

Men of the Army Flying Corps are here seen requiring a damaged monoplane. One blade of the damaged propeller is sticking up, and the other is broken.

The apparatus indicates the direction in which the vessel blowing her foghorn is travelling, whether she is going ahead, astern, or on either side. If there are several ships in the vicinity, the recording lights from any of them can be shut off until the position of the others has been observed.

Drink and Insanity.

At a recent conference in London, Eng., the alcohol problem was given much discussion, and Dr. Forbes Winslow, the well-known statistician, stated that investigations made by him during the last five years in various parts of the world convince him that lunacy is making untold progress, and that the only goal to be reached is world-wide prohibition.

"Among the uncivilized races insanity is practically unknown, but where civilization is great and the mental efforts have to be made to keep up with events, and where the temptation is thrown in the way of making the increase is very real. The chief cause of the increase is shown in the statistics to be caused by drink. Twenty per cent of all lunacy in the world is due to drink. Other causes are heredity and injudicious marriage. To check mental deterioration there should be immediate legislation for the compulsory confinement of habitual drunkards and for the establishment of half-way houses where those suffering from acute but curable insanity could be placed instead of being incarcerated in lunatic asylums."

BAND CHAT.

The Hamilton 1. (Bermda) Band is making good progress. We are now in the final stages of conditions, and working hard with our new journal. Bandmaster Simmons has his heart in the work, and is very busy now with the teaching of the new music.

Our Commanding Officers, Ensign and Mrs. Owen, are taking a great interest in the welfare of the Band, both musically and spiritually. We are said to be the best local Band in Bermuda. Our new uniforms add considerably to our appearance.

Our Deputy-Bandmaster, Bro. S. Wellman, has just said farewell for the Land of the Maple Leaf. We deeply regret his departure. We have welcomed Bandmaster Simmons, who has been labouring in the American field for a few years. He has joined the cornet section, and is proving very helpful. A. Frith. [Glad to get your report.—Ed.]

Among the Cadets who have just entered the International Training College at Clapton, London, England, are a great number of Bandmen. So numerous are they in fact that already a combination of nearly 20 musicians has been formed, and previous to the Cadets' welcome meeting these Bandmen-Cadets marched through Clapton streets announcing the event.

Bandman Charlie Welber, of Congress Hall Band, London, and who assists Major Dyer in the Congressional Department at International Headquarters, was a visitor to Toronto last week. He brought a party of emigrants to this country of the migrants.

The Temple Bandmen were favoured with the presence of their usual list of Sunday afternoon last of several visitors, Lt. Col. Chandler, the D. C., being chief among them. Also present were Bandmen Stewart, Chelms from the Chicago Staff Band, Ensign Hangan (the Temple's late Bandmaster), and Correspondent Manning of the famous Regent Hall Band, London. The latter, also the American visitors, gave good reports of their respective Bands, and Lt. Col. Chandler gave a bright, impromptu address to the Bandmen. Bandmen Anderson and McLaughlin from Chicago 1. Band were at the Temple during the day, which resulted in a $25 dollar margin for the Band Fund. Quite recently, when the Bandmen were playing outside of the King Edward Hotel, a piece of paper fluttered down into the fire. When opened it was found to contain $150 and a request for "Abide With Me."

It was with a touch of pride, feeling that they had been honoured, that the Bandmen of the Toronto Temple read in one of the recent issues of the "War Cry," the names of the men, Songster, and Local Officers, that one of the latest marches published by the Army's musical department is named after them. The march is the composition of Ensign W. Brughton (late of the Chicago Territorial Staff Band) who visited Toronto not long ago, and was inspired to write this march as a result of hearing the Temple Band's music.

London 1. Band and their friends have been suggested by the Editor of the "War Cry" to send a letter of appreciation to the Editor of the "War Cry" for the interest shown in the work of the Band.

and son, Bro. Naylor, senior, has taken up BB bass and the son is playing solo cornet. The latter has also joined the Songsters, and Sister Naylor is a good addition to the sopranos.—Candidate Booth.

Peterboro Band finished their series of festivals given in one of the local parks by giving a memorial programme in honour of our late General. Among other things the Band played the Dead March in Saul. Promoted to Glory, the Beautiful Stream, Songs of Comfort, Jerusalem, my Happy Home, and Songs of Heaven No. 1 selections. Bandmaster Perry gave a cornet solo. "Oh, Thou Who Drest the Mourner's Tear," Bandman Sandford gave a trombone solo. "The Cross is Not Greater Than His Grace," and Bandman F. Robinson played as an euphonium solo one of "The General's" favourite songs, "Cleansing for Me."

A correspondent at Dundas says that the Bandmen at that

How I Saw The General Lying-in-state.

The Impressions of an English Bandman.

A visitor from London, England, in the person of Brother Manning of the Emigration Staff, recently dropped in to see the Editor, and as he had witnessed the lying-in-state of our late General, we gathered a few impressions of the event from him. "The General's death," said Manning, "was a great loss to the Empire. He was a man of great character, and from all quarters people hastened to express their sympathy. Side by side with ladies and gentlemen, many of them bearing lifted names, came poor women and even lamps to pay their last tribute of respect to the General. It was one of the latter feelings I overheard saying: 'Ah, may a bit I've had in the Shelters of the Salvation Army.' The poor realize that they have lost a

Two more Bandmen are on their way, and on arrival will take up tenor, trombone, and there are rumours of even other additions being made shortly. Good for Dundas.

On a recent Sunday afternoon the Bramford Band visited the House of Refuge in that city, and greatly cheered the old people with music and song. Bandmaster Newman led on.

We had with us at Dresden Ensign Lightowler from Ingersoll for the week-end. His talks were very much enjoyed. On Monday evening he was on India which was very interesting.

A CHEERING THOUGHT.

(By Mrs. Blanche Johnston.)

"I have seen this thought when out of the world, and that thought was rapidly slipping away down the horizon. His farewell rays illumined the sky beyond the city to the westward, reflecting as it sank behind the rising tide land above all the last receding glory of light and brilliancy upon the summit of the huge sand stone mountains of the land looked harbour to the east, and tipping the wave crests of the rolling sea below until they mirrored all the grandeur of infinitude, dancing on that immense expanse of waters. Oh! the sublimity of a sunset on the sea! So often sung by poet and portrayed by artist's brush. But the reality—! Forlornate of eternal glory."

I was walking on one of the wharves of the harbour of Newfoundland's busiest city, St. John's. Though it was evening, and most of the citizens were resting in their homes, these busy island fishermen were at work still. Scores of crafts were moored or anchored in this wonderful harbour—chiefly schooners bound for the summer's fishing. There were many other things, such as that during the day I saw that the mother of a fisher folk from the distant harbours and coves had gathered in for supplies, preparatory to the Labrador and other expeditions. Many were the song, good natured voices of these dear folk, as they sang or called to each other while preparing the evening repast, or packing the supplies away on their vessels.

But it was not any of these things that made the earthly things first, and therefore they will not have their earthly things upset for His things, and do you suppose He is deceived? Do you think it is likely that the great God of heaven, who has millions of angels and archangels to worship and serve Him, is going to pour His glory on such people, and reveal Himself to them, and use them? Not likely! "I will be first in your love," He says.

Now you can't live without sin! It is impossible. You Army folks go too far. How you can live in a wicked world, right among sinners, and yet keep from it? It is impossible!

"My brother" said the Salvationist, glancing at the fish lying on the stall "where did you get that fish? It is salt-water fish, is it not?" "Yes," answered the dealer, looking surprised and failing to see any connection between his fish and the sweeping assertion he had just made.

"Is it salty?" resumed the Salvationist. "Why, no!" "Well," smiled his visitor, "don't you think my Father, who causes the fish to live in the salt water fresh-free from salt—can keep me in a sinful world without sin?"

It was just one illustration from the material world of the power of the Infinite, but the spiritual question was silenced and convinced.

This, then, was the lesson that came to my mind that lovely spring evening as I walked on the docks of the St. John's harbour. What do you think of it, comrades, friends?

On Saturday evening Staff-Captain and Mrs. Fraser were in charge of a meeting at the Central Prison. The speakers on Obedience to the Light.

An Address by Mrs. General Booth.

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." And be not conformed to this world: but ye be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.—Romans xii. 1, 2.

You remember the text that was read at the opening of the meeting, "and the world hath hated them because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." It means something, and there are a hundred other texts teaching the same truth. Now what does it mean?

The Lord here is to see it. Does it not mean that we are not to be like the rest of the world? That we are not to be guided by the same measures and act upon the same principles as the world—that we are not to attach the same importance to mere earthly things as the world does? Have you ever thought of those awful words in the parable of the sower. "The seed of the sower, that enter in and choke the seed." Not admirable things, not immoral things, but things that are not of the kingdom of God. They are things that are not of the kingdom of God. They are things that are not of the kingdom of God. They are things that are not of the kingdom of God.

Now let me say a word to try to help those who are desiring to attain this blessing. There is no other way. It is of no use beating about the bush. It is not conformed to the world, but it is transformed. These two are in juxtaposition. If you will be conformed to the world, you will not be transformed; if you will be transformed, you will not be conformed to the world.

Now let me say a word to try to help those who are desiring to attain this blessing. There is no other way. It is of no use beating about the bush. It is not conformed to the world, but it is transformed. These two are in juxtaposition. If you will be conformed to the world, you will not be transformed; if you will be transformed, you will not be conformed to the world.

You women here, if you knew that you were not the first and only one in the affections of your husbands, what would you say? And you husbands, would you dwell with a wife if you knew she was not the only one in her affections, but that they were divided between you and someone else? "Not likely," you would say; "I am not going to be deceived."

OPEN-AIR ENROLLMENT.

The week-end meeting at the Central Prison, which was conducted by Captain Wright of Winnipeg. His singing, and music on the guitar was much enjoyed. At night the Captain dedicated the daughter of Bro. and Sister Cox. Crowds of friends and experienced comrades. Ensign Adams read the Scripture lesson.

On the previous Thursday our Corps Officer enrolled two Soldiers (one in the open-air). The Soldiers are getting into uniform. Next week's Corps open-air meeting will be a new drum. Our drummer collected for the same. Captain Hargrave and Staff-Captain and Mrs. Harv.

On Wednesday night Mrs. Hargrave lectured on "Pioneering Days" of the Army, which was very touching and interesting, and we all felt better for having heard the same.—M. G.

REACHING EXHIBITION CROWDS.

Edmonton Soldiers Make Most of Open-Air Opportunities.

Edmonton Exhibition week brought crowds of strangers to the city, and the Corps took every advantage of the opportunity to reach them in the open air. The week-end was a blessed one, and on Saturday night one seeker came out. Powerful and far-reaching influences were at work in the meetings on Sunday, and in spite of the high temperatures were good. The night meeting closed with five for salvation.

Under the command of Captain and Mrs. Merrill and Captain Leavelle, the Corps is making very satisfactory progress.

The new monster bass, made at the S. A. factory for Edmonton, has been attracting considerable attention in one of the store windows, where it has been placed on exhibition. The Army services are much appreciated by the "boys" in the Alberta Penitentiary. Worden McCauley and Deputy Warden Cummings allowed the service held every Sunday morning and give every facility for this work.

BRANTFORD NEWS.

On Tuesday last Mrs. Adjutant Houdinot held a well-attended Soldiers' meeting.

On Thursday brothers Bissett and Newrick acted as Captain and Lieutenant, respectively, a blessed time being spent. On Saturday a larger open-air meeting than usual was held on the Market Square, followed by a big Salvation Meeting in the afternoon, which was draped in regulation mourning both outside and in, in memory of our late beloved General.

At 11 a.m. on Sunday Mrs. Adjutant Houdinot held the Holiness Meeting, and in an eloquent address advised the Soldiers to have the same mind as Christ, in the afternoon the Songsters arrived in white and purple, under Leader Johnson, took the meeting, and moved a great blessing. At night Captain McKew spoke.—J. T. Wimbles.

ENVOY HANCOCK VISITS PARIS.

Last week-end Envoy Hancock held the meetings at Paris. Two well-attended open-air meetings were held on Saturday night. The Envoy's talk on Sunday morning proved a blessing to all present. In the afternoon the Envoy's life and his relation to with great interest. An interesting ceremony was performed in the evening, when seven instruments were presented to our newly-formed Band. At night Envoy Hancock conducted a powerful salvation service, when the Songster Brigade rendered "Who is on the Lord's Side" with pleasing effect.—G. A. B.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

Adj. Wiseman led on at Treton last week-end. The meetings were very encouraging. Many were deeply convicted, and one man raised his hand for prayer, but left the meeting undecided. The Hall was about to be closed when the Lieutenant saw the same man standing outside, so he approached him and had the joy of sending him back to the Hall, where he found the Saviour. G. C. Fredericks, from Campbellford is assisting. Lieut. Marshall for the present.

THE GENERAL.

In this issue we publish some particulars concerning General Bramwell Booth, who has, in the providence of God and by the appointment of the late General, been called to the high office of Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army. In a sense it may be said to be his birthday, for the son as naturally succeeded the father as day follows day, and he comes into a mighty heritage. He will need the prayers of our comrades and friends—as any man must who enters upon such a task—as he leads the world's Salvation Army will bear him up to the Throne of Grace in calm confidence that he who, by the Grace of God, so faithfully filled the position of Chief of the Staff will give an equally good account of his stewardship as The General of the Salvation Army.

The worldwide Salvation Army accepts the new General with loving satisfaction. Not only because he is his father's son—and The Army's veneration for his illustrious Founder makes the acceptance a welcome event for his own sake. And it must be gratifying to our General at this moment to feel that he enters upon his responsible position with the blessing of every member of The Army—rank and file. No dissenting voice or discordant note has marred the joyous and good discipline of The Army, and because of this solidarity of confidence and unity of spirit there is no cause for alarm or doubt for the future. The bulletin that announced the death of our late Leader did so in these simple but expressive words:

"The General has laid down his sword. God is with us!"

Yes indeed, the Great Captain is with His people, and General Bramwell Booth has taken up the sword to push the battle to the goal.

The outlook is most encouraging. Let us pray, act, and hope that our highest expectations may be abundantly surpassed. God bless The General and Mrs. Booth.

LT. COLONEL MAIDMENT
To Be Canada's Chief Secretary.

OTHER IMPORTANT INTERNATIONAL APPOINTMENTS.

The Commissioner has been informed by The General that formed by the General in charge of The Army's operations in the West Indies, has been appointed as Chief Secretary for Canada, Newfoundland, and the Bermudas. Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. Maidment will probably arrive in Canada in the early part of November. God bless them and give them good success.

Lieut. Colonel Maidment.
 The latest English Cry to hand contains the following write-up of Col. Maidment as well as the news of other important matters. Lieut. Colonel Sidney Maidment, who is forewelling from the West Indian Command, is appointed as Chief Secretary for Canada and Newfoundland. The Colonel received his first Commission as an Officer when little more than a boy, his devotion and capacity quickly marking him out for appointment to Staff Service in Scotland was followed by transfer to Denmark, in which country he filled in turn the position of A. D. C. to the Territorial Commander, Training Home Officer and Divisional Commander. Appointment to the Chief Secretaryship of Finland followed, and for the last five years he has been facing the vicissitudes of travel and adventure that are inseparable from the Indian Territorial Command.

Few, if any Salvation Army families, are more cosmopolitan than the family of the Maidments—children having been born to them in most of the countries in which the Colonel and his wife have fought. It is of interest to note in passing that Mrs. Maidment, who before her marriage was known as Captain Peckham, was Lieutenant as a Field Officer in Denmark by a young Officer who is now Mrs. Colonel Povlsen of Norway.

The appointment to which the Colonel is succeeding will only be the second he has had for more than twenty years that has not carried with it the necessity to leave his wife and children.

The Lt. Colonel has seen something like twenty-four years' service.

The following personal sketch of Lieut. Colonel Maidment was written by an Officer who was with him recently in the West Indian Headquarters, and sent to us by Staff-Capt. Shaw.

Colonel and Mrs. Maidment have had a varied career in The Army. They have done 22 years of foreign service, and with the exception of the two and a half years in South Africa, and nearly five years in Jamaica, have lived their own life in long wanderings, therefore, that of his first meetings in Jamaica, the Colonel sometimes hesitated for the correct English word to describe his meaning. English seemed to be the lowest down in his stock of languages, and took a little time to be brought to the surface.

Although British born, the Colonel says he is an "Internationalist," and a glance at his family strengthens his assertion. They have five children, each born outside Great Britain, each in a different country.

Violet, the eldest, was born in Denmark; Corry, the second girl, in Holland; Bramwell, in South Africa; Herbert, in the Argentine Republic; and Andrew, the youngest girl, in Norway. Truly a cosmopolitan group.

Of the Colonel and Mrs. Maidment personally much might be said, but in this article there is only room for a few impressions. Mrs. Maidment is a typical Salvationist, possessing a fine spirit, a great love for souls, and an almost disregard of the limits of her physical strength. When starting an address she strikes out right away, eliminating all unnecessary preliminaries, caring little for style or garnish. Her fervent soul vibrates her slight physical frame, whilst her thoughts flash expression rapidly, like the torrent rushes down the mountain side. Rank and position make very little difference to her style, and she is a Salvationist first and foremost.

Although none the less a Salvationist, the Colonel is cast in a different mould altogether. Fairly tall, broad shouldered, with a fair complexion, he might be taken for a descendant of one of the old Vikings. Calm and deliberate in speaking, there is with him a suggestion of unbounded reserve power—of strength derived from a spiritual source and stored, not to rush wildly like water over the cataract, but to be concentrated and controlled as the millstream which turns his wheel, or the deep channel that is used to drive some great electric energy does not "leak" the Americans say, and would waste any.

It is evident, too, from his experience of Army administration and of human nature, that he would be dealt with fairly. He does not concern others on the good or bad points of his own work.

It is interesting to note that he has proved the truth of his assertions, and in Colonel Maidment we are sure that Canada will have a Chief Secretary who will carry on the task with a known throughout the Army world.

Col. Rothwell's Appointment.
 Colonel Charles Rothwell has for some years held the position of Candidates' Secretary at the British National Headquarters, and is appointed as Territorial Commander of our forces in the West Indies. The Colonel has ready had considerable experience of colonial life, having been a number of years held in various points in Australia. He is well known to all who know him as a name that is almost a household word in Army circles.

Colonel Rothwell has spent the greater part of his life in the service, and gained a wide experience and knowledge of men and affairs. Mrs. Rothwell has unfortunately been prevented from undertaking much active work for some time past by reason of her illness.

Although she was a front-line warrior for many years, New Australian Chief Secretary, Lieut. Colonel Webb Patten, who is one of the most active officers of this association.

The Toronto D. C., Lieut. Col. Chandler, is arranging to conduct a series of special Soldiers' meetings at every Corps in the City of Toronto, prior to the opening of the Congress. These meetings will no doubt do much to prepare the hearts and minds of the soldiers for the reception of Congress blessings, will increase their enthusiasm and whet their spiritual appetites.

While in the East, Lieut. Col. Rees visited the Dorchester Penitentiary, where he met Warden Peers, the chaplain, and chief officers, who received him very cordially. Coming down to Montreal, the Colonel visited the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, where, with Major Blay, he interviewed twenty-one convicts. As a result, the Army will be able to help them very materially.

Mrs. Adjutant Coale (nee Captain Robinson) of Nashville, Tenn., U.S.A., was promoted to glory from a hospital in that city on September 1. Mrs. Coale, who with the Adjutant is an old Canadian Officer, is to be buried at Osawaha by Lieut. Colonel Turner on Thursday. The Adjutant has our heartfelt sympathies in his great loss.

The burr which Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. Rees have just completed in the East, was especially interesting to the interested parties.

PERSONALITIES.

The Chief Secretary left Territorial Headquarters on Sunday night and boarded the 10.30 p.m. train for the West, where he is conducting his farewell tour. The Colonel was accompanied by Lieut. Colonel Pugmire and Brigadier Burditt.

The latter Officer, while in Vancouver, met Colonel Lamb, the Chief Officer of the Emigration Department at International Headquarters, who is returning to England via this country after an inspection trip to China. It is especially interesting to note that The General, up to the very last, showed great interest in the Colonel's mission on which he was sent to report as to the possibility of commencing work in the Celestial empire. Our late Leader longed to see the Blood and Fire flag floating over China.

Mrs. Colonel Mapp informs us that in connection with the promotion to Heaven of our beloved General, special memorial services have been held in every Rescue Home in the Dominion. In one institution there were eleven cases of conversion, and in another seven, all as a result of these meetings. One of the Rescue Officers witnessed a touching life scene the other day. It was that of three little children kneeling in the road before a large poster picture of The General. All were in the attitude of prayer, and tearfully poured out their little hearts to God. He might take care of the dear General, whom they well knew, was the children's friend.

Lieut. Colonel Rees represented the Salvation Army at a meeting of the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada on Sept. 28. The Chief Secretary, who is one of the most active officers of this association.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY
AT THE TEMPLE.COMMISSIONER REES AND COLONEL MAPP LEAD ON—LARGE CROWDS—ELEVEN SOULS FOR SALVATION.

VERY impressive memorial service for the late General was conducted at the Temple on Sunday night by the Commissioner, assisted by the Chief Secretary and a number of T. H. Q. Staff. The Hall was packed long before the hour of commencing, and numbers of people who were unable to obtain admission were able to remain on the street and listen to what they could hear of the singing, thus joining silently in the memorial service. The proceedings inside commenced with the Temple Band striking up the solemn strains of "Promoted to Glory." A procession then entered from the back of the Hall. First came a sergeant bearing the Army colours. He was closely followed by the Commissioner and the Chief Secretary, and the leading Staff Officers of T. H. Q. with their wives. A short prayer for blessing on the meeting was offered by the Commissioner, and then the Chief Secretary gave out The General's favourite song, "O Boundless Salvation." It was sung with deep feeling. Lieut. Colonel Rees then prayed. The Temple Songsters next sang that grand old hymn, "Abide With Me." Colonel Mapp remarked that The General had been a great believer in the power of song to touch people's hearts.

Very appropriate to the occasion was the reading of one of The General's letters by the Chief Secretary. It was entitled "Ready to die," and was of once appealing and forcible.

"His voice is silenced by death," said the Colonel, "but when death came he was ready. He had the assurance in life that he was a friend of God, he had a pure heart, and he did his duty, and thus when death overtook him he had no fears. His last thoughts were for the Salvation Army. How touching were his words. 'My poor, dear people, I don't worry about me—let me die; I want to go to heaven.'"

The audience was profoundly and interestingly in Mrs. Rees, for she was able to visit no fewer than four old battlegrounds—Quebec, Montreal, St. John, N.B., and Halifax. At the first named place, many years ago, she was trained as a Cadet for the French work in which she spent nine years at the second she was engaged in the French work, and on the occasion of this last visit to Montreal concluded a useful visit at the French Corps, at the third she was once a District Officer and in charge of St. John I. Corps, and at the fourth she was afterwards becoming the District Officer and commander of the No. 1 Corps. Altogether the tour was most profitable to both our comrades.

On Sept. 25, Lieut. Colonel Rees was conducting a Halle-lujah wedding at Liger Street. Just who the interested parties stirred. Reverently they all stood to their feet while the Band played the "Dona March in Saul" in honour of the passing of our great Leader.

Lieut. Colonel Pugmire then sang a solo that had always been a favourite of The General's in prayer meetings. "Hark, Hear the Saviour Knocking."

The Commissioner next addressed the people. He took for his text 1st Timothy iv. 5: "rather a long one, he remarked, but it had been a favourite with the General, some twenty-five years ago. The Commissioner then made a comparison between St. Paul and The General, and endeavoured to show that the confidence of each when death approached was due to their unwavering faith in God, to a sense of duty done, and a consciousness that they had lived their lives in harmony with the will of God.

The General had not gone through to the end without encountering many difficulties and perplexities, however. Once he said to the Commissioner: "I have been three times in my life when it seemed as if every hope and ambition for which I lived must have passed away."

One of those times was described by the Commissioner as follows: In 1882 a deputation of eminent churchmen came to The General and put before him an offer of financial support if he would make The Salvation Army a church mission, and modify some of its doctrines. The General was very hard pressed for money at that period, but though the offer seemed very tempting and would have solved all his financial problems at once, yet he firmly refused it, saying that he would sooner let his head be cut off than to have made their peace with the plain teachings of the Bible.

And time has proved the wisdom of The General's decision. Of The General's life behind the scenes the Commissioner spoke in glowing praise. "The multitude only saw him on the platform," he said, "and in the most be made known later."

Major Miller, the architect, is going to the 800 this week-end, in connection with property matters. He will also conduct the week-end meeting.

Major Hugh Sladen, who is connected with the Y. P. work in the Country, is at present visiting Canada. The Major called at the Editorial offices during the week, and had a short chat with the Editor.

Heartiest congratulations to Major Fraser of the Men's Social Department, Toronto; Major Desbriay of the Women's Social Department at Headquarters; Major Barn, the commander of the Halle-lujah division; and to Maj. Jennings, of the Immigration Department, who have just been (Continued on page 14.)

glare of publicity, but those who were privileged to come close to him and to observe his constant self-sacrificing spirit, would help but to be helped with the fact that here was a grand old warrior for God with a great and loving heart and a wonderful keen mind. And as an instance of The General's spirit the Commissioner related the following incident. It happened in Sweden, where The General had gone shortly after the first operation on his eye. As he stepped out of the railway station he caught sight of an immense crowd waiting to welcome him. The temperature was 32 below zero, and a closed carriage had been provided in which to drive the General to his billet. But nothing could damp the zeal of The General. Ordering the carriage to be thrown open, he stood there on that intensely cold night, an old man of 81, and spoke to the crowd for twenty minutes.

Striking incident like this from The General's life could not fail to impress all with a sense of the real of his character. And having paid his tribute to the memory of the great man with whom he had so long and so closely associated for the last thirty years, the Commissioner thought home to the lesson of it all to the hearts of his hearers.

It was truly after the heart of his promoted Chief. "What about you? How are you spending your life? Are you ready to die?"

In response to the appeal to get right with God at once a young man ran up to the General and walked out to the Penitentiary form. Handing the lead of the prayer meeting over to Colonel Pugmire, the Commissioner went down amongst the audience and soon led another soul to the foot of the cross.

Others followed, until ten in all had made their peace with God before the meeting was closed.

The other services throughout the day were largely of a moral and oral character also, the songs and texts used being favourites of the late General. The boldness and heart-stirring nature of the new meeting was a very powerful and heart-stirring nature, and soon led another soul to the foot of the cross.

In the afternoon Mrs. Lieut. Colonel Rees, Lieut. Colonel Chandler and Turner, and Brigadier Potter spoke. The Committee also gave the final address, and in recalling trials in the character of the late General, the speaker said: "The General's life was a wonderful example for all of us to follow. He was a man of great faith and courage, and his life was a constant struggle for the truth. He was a man of great love and compassion, and his life was a constant struggle for the souls of men. Salvation Songs.

HOLINESS.

Tunes—Come, Comrades, Dear,
130; Song-Book, 888.
O glorious hope of perfect
love!
It lifts me up to things above,
It bears on eagles' wings,
It gives my ravished soul a taste,
And makes me for some moments feast
With Jesus' priests and kings.

Rejoicing now in earnest hope,
I stand, and from the mountaintop
See all the land below:
Rivers of milk and honey rise,
And all the fruits of paradise
In endless plenty grow.

Now, O my Jesus, bring me in!
Cast out Thy foes; the inbred
sin,
The carnal mind, remove:
The purchase of Thy death jivide!
Give me, with all the sanctified,
The heritage of love!

Tunes—Thy Will Be Done, 18;
Song-Book, 5.

2 When I survey the wondrous
Cross
On which the Prince of Glory
died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.

Forbid it, Lord, that I should boast,
Save in the death of Christ, my trod;

All the vain things that charm
me most,
I sacrifice them to His Blood,
That others may be freed.

See, from His head, His hands,
His feet,
Sorrow and love flow mingled
down;
Did ever such love and sorrow
meet,
Or thorns compose so rich a crown?

FREE AND EASY.

Tunes—Anything for Jesus, 200;
Song-Book, 427.

3 Jesus, precious Saviour, Thou hast saved my soul,
From sin's foul corruption
made me fully whole;
Every hour I'll serve Thee, what-e'er may befall,
Till in Heaven I crown Thee King,
and Lord of all.

Chorus:
All my heart I give Thee, day by day, come what may!
All my life I give Thee, dying
men to save.

In the toils and conflicts faithful
I will be,
All things I will gladly bear,
They'll be good for me;
To be a saviour of mankind,
slaves of sin to bring,
Give me holy courage, mighty,
mighty King.

Tune—"Fighting On."
To the war! to the war! loud
and long sounds the cry:
To the war! every soldier who fears not to die,
See the millions who are drifting to Hell's endless woe.
Oh, who in the name of Jehovah will go?

Chorus:
Fighting on, etc.
To the war! to the war! Who'll
the war-cry shout?
O the great God who calls you
